- Basic Salary: Basic is the first component on the earnings side of the salary slip. This comprises typically 30% to 40% of your CTC. This is a fixed component of your salary and is the basis on which HRA, EPF, Gratuity, encashment, etc are calculated. Thus it is perhaps the most important component of salary. The component is 100% taxable.

- House Rent Allowance (HRA): House Rent Allowance (HRA) is given to employees to help them pay their house rent. HRA is usually 40-50% of your basic salary. The HRA depends on the city of residence of the employee. For a metro city, HRA is 50% of the basic pay. For all other cities, it is 40% of the basic pay. It appears on the earnings side of the salary slip. One can save income tax on HRA up to the specified limit.
- Special Allowance: Special Allowance is a fixed amount that is given to employees over and above the basic salary in order to meet certain requirements. This component is completely taxable.
- Bonus: A bonus is a form of monetary incentive that is paid by the employer to the employees. This is a statutory component included in the CTC structure for eligible employees. This is a taxable component.
- Car Repair and Maintenance: Car Maintenance Allowance will include - Fuel bills (Petrol/ Diesel) and the Driver's salary. If the employee owns the car, he will be entitled to an exemption per month in respect of the driver. This component is given to higher salaries as tax-saving benefits.
- Telephone and Internet Reimbursement: One of the most common reimbursements is the phone and internet bill reimbursement which allows employees to claim the money they spent on their phone and data networks as part of their official duty from their employers. This component is given for tax-saving benefits.

- Books & Periodicals Allowance: Books & Periodicals Allowance is a personal employee benefit that is provided to an employee to meet expenses on the purchase of books, periodicals, and newspapers. "Books & Periodicals Allowance is tax exempted on actual bills with a max limit cap that the company decides".
- Professional Development Allowance: Allowance granted for the purpose of encouraging academic and research-related training, education, or professional duties is termed as academic or research allowance. This component is given for tax-saving benefits.
- Leave Travel Allowance (LTA): Leave Travel Allowance as the name suggests is an allowance paid to the employee by the employer when the former is traveling with their family or alone. This component is given for tax-saving benefits.
- Child Education Allowance: Education Allowance is paid to the employees for the schooling offered to their child. One can save income tax on Education Allowance up to the specified limit.
- Gross Earning (A): It signifies the amount before any voluntary or mandatory deductions are made from it. Therefore, it is the total pay that an employee receives before taxes and other deductions. Gross Total Income is calculated by summing up earnings received as per all the heads of earnings.
- Formula for Gross Earning = Basic Salary + HRA + All Other allowances + any one-time payment or benefit

Components Under Deductions:

Common Deductions	Amount (Rs.)
Provident Fund(Employee)	0.00
Professional Tax Amount	0.00
ESIC	0.00
TDS	0.00
Loan EMI	0.00
Total Deduction (B)	0.00

- Professional Tax: Professional Tax is a kind of tax on gross salary levied by the State Government. It is calculated on the basis of an individual's tax slab. This amount is deducted from the taxable income. It appears on the deductions side of the salary slip.

- TDS (Tax Deductible at Source): It refers to the amount of tax deducted by your employer on behalf of the Income Tax department. It is based on the gross tax slab of the employee. It appears on the deductions side of the salary slip.
- Employee Provident Fund (EPF): Provident Fund is a government-managed mandatory retirement savings scheme. This is a Statutory deduction from your salary. Your contribution towards the EPF is exempted from tax up to a certain limit. Employee Provident Fund appears on the deductions side of the salary slip.
- Loan EMI: If you have availed of a loan or advance from the company, the installment is deducted every month. Loan EMI appears on the deductions side of the salary slip.
- Total Deduction (B): It is the sum of all the components of the deduction side of the payslip.
- Formula for Deduction Total = All types of regular deductions + statutory deductions + any one time deductions

Net Pay :

Net Pay (A - B)
Total Pay
Note: This is a Computer Generated Slip and does not require signature

Net pay: It is an employee's earnings after all deductions are taken out. Net pay is the total salary one gets after all the mandatory deductions that are made from the total gross salary. This is the total amount that gets credited to the bank account of the employee.

The formula for Net pay = Gross Earning - Gross Deduction
