

Background Verification Policy

Human Resource Department

AMNEX INFOTECHNOLOGIES PVT. LTD.

This policy sets out the Company's approach to conducting background verification of employees, to support a safe, compliant, and trustworthy work environment. Verification enables the Company to validate employees' credentials and employment history, identify and mitigate hiring-related risks, and meet applicable legal and client contractual obligations, while ensuring fair and non-discriminatory practices..

Scope:

This policy applies to all full-time, on-roll employees of the Company. Verification is carried out following onboarding, to validate the information provided during recruitment, including past employment and other relevant details.

Process:

- Consent: Written consent for background verification will be obtained along with the acceptance of the offer letter. Wherever feasible, BGV will be initiated two (2) weeks prior to the scheduled date of joining. All applicable verification checks may be conducted during this period, except verification with the candidate's current employer, which will be initiated only after the employee joins the Company or with the candidate's explicit consent.
- Education: The company may verify highest educational qualifications. Including degrees, diplomas, and professional certifications, directly with the issuing institutions.
- Criminal Record: A reputable third-party agency may conduct criminal record checks in compliance with applicable laws and regulations.
- Previous Employment: Employment details may be verified with upto past three employers.
- Additional Checks (If Applicable): Where a role requires it, and with the approval of the Head of Human Resources, the Company may conduct further checks — which may include credit history, drug screening, or global database checks — to the extent permitted by applicable law.
- Review and outcome: Any discrepancy identified during verification is reviewed objectively, and the employee is given an opportunity to provide additional documentation or clarification. Where it is confirmed that a false statement has been made, a material fact has not been disclosed, or information has been misrepresented, the matter will be addressed in accordance with the Company's Disciplinary Policy.

Confidentiality and Data Protection:

All information obtained during background verification is treated as confidential and handled in accordance with applicable data protection law. Access is restricted to authorised HR personnel and relevant decision-makers, on a need-to-know basis. Verification records are retained for the duration of employment, or for such period as required under applicable law, and securely disposed of thereafter.
