

Remote Working Policy

Human Resource Department

AMNEX INFOTECHNOLOGIES PVT. LTD.

The Company follows an in-office working model as its standard practice to support collaboration, alignment, and delivery. Remote working is enabled as an exceptional arrangement where an employee's personal or situational needs, or specific business requirements, genuinely call for it.

Scope:

This Policy applies to all employees of the Company.

Eligibility:

- Remote working is evaluated on a case-by-case basis, taking into account the nature of the role, business and project requirements, and the employee's ability to work effectively from a remote location.
- Some roles may not be suitable for remote working due to the nature of the work. This will be communicated to the employee at the time of the request.
- Remote working may be considered in situations such as:
 - a) business or project requirements;
 - b) medical conditions that limit travel but not the ability to work;
 - c) family emergencies or care responsibilities;
 - d) personal circumstances such as parental duties, relocation, or marriage-related commitments;
 - e) returning late from official travel; or
 - f) safety concerns such as civil unrest or natural disasters.
- The employee must have the necessary infrastructure at the remote location including a working system/laptop, reliable broadband, and access to Company applications to be eligible for remote working.

Approval Process:

- One-off work from home request requires Reporting Manager approval, submitted through HRMS or by email in advance.
- For a continued work-from-home arrangement, the Reporting Manager must obtain approval from the Review Manager (L2 manager) and the HRBP before the arrangement commences. The request must state the reason and expected duration.
- Arrangements beyond six months require fresh review and approval from the BU Head / Department Head and the HR Head before continuation.

Employee Responsibilities:

- Maintain normal working hours and remain accessible via phone and email during working hours.
- Meet performance standards and delivery expectations, irrespective of location.
- Communicate proactively, share updates, flag challenges, and respond promptly to communications.
- Seek clarification where required, and engage constructively with the Reporting Manager and team.
- Attend office for meetings, events, or requirements that call for physical presence, even during an approved remote working arrangement.
- Report any absence due to illness or emergency in line with the Attendance and Punctuality Policy and the Leave Policy.

Manager Responsibilities:

Managers are expected to set clear expectations for the remote working arrangement, maintain regular communication with remotely working team members, and address concerns promptly.

Data Security and Confidentiality:

- The employee's remote working location must ordinarily be their registered home address. Any change must be notified to the Reporting Manager and HRBP.
- Remote working from public locations such as cafes, airports, and co-working spaces is not permitted when handling Company confidential or client information.
- Company devices, credentials, and confidential data must not be shared with anyone, including family members.
- Company data must not be stored on personal devices or retained physically at the remote location.
- Employees are responsible for Company-provided equipment issued for remote work, and are liable for damage caused by negligence.
- Employees must comply with the Confidentiality and Intellectual Property Policy, the Company's IT and information security requirements, and the Code of Conduct while working remotely.

Governance:

- An approved remote working arrangement may be reviewed and, where necessary, revoked or modified where business needs, role requirements, or the employee's performance necessitate a return to in-office work. The employee will be informed with the reasons.
- Any deviation from the provisions of this Policy in a specific case requires prior approval from the HR Head.

Non-Compliance:

Any breach of this Policy by an employee shall be addressed in accordance with the Company's Disciplinary Policy.
