Code of Conduct

A. Scope & Applicability

This “Code of Conduct” provides clear guidelines and standards for the appropriate behaviour expected out of all the concerned employees. This Code has been adopted by the MD, Directors & Management of Amnex Infotechnologies Private Limited and its group companies. (Henceforth referred to as “Amnex”) and shall apply to all employees, full time and part-time, individuals engaged as retainers/on contract, etc.

B. Objective

As a fast-growing organization, we face a new set of challenges every day, that bring new situations as well as issues to counter. The Code of conduct have been designed to address these challenges and will act as a guideline for employees and the organization to resolve these issues and to guide their approach in day to day work. Having said that, the Code of conduct will need to be updated every year to add new aspects and adapt as per the changing requirements of the organization. The Code of conduct are applicable to all employees of the organization, across levels, functions, business units and sites. The Code of conduct have been designed to cover a vast range of aspects such as:

1. Conflict of Interests
2. Employee Conduct
3. Internal Discipline
4. Protecting Company Interests
5. Equal opportunities employer

C. Making an Ethical Decision

When in an ethical dilemma, employees must consider the Code to be a guide in addressing and resolving it. The Code may not be able to cover all situations, in such case it will provide direction to the right channel for addressing the concern.

In case of any uncertainty in making an ethical decision, you can seek help in the following sequence:

1. Reporting Manager
2. Functional CXO
3. Line HR (HRBP)
4. HR-Head
5. ED & Directors

The company is also in process of forming an Ethics and review Committee (To be announced) that would review any case of ethical violation and would act as a final authority on such matters.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

What is expected of Employees: Responsibility of Amnex employees:

- Every Amnex employee must have understanding of the Code of conduct
- Promote a positive, safe and healthy environment in the conduct of his/her work.
- Undertake his/her duties and behave in a manner that is consistent with the provisions of the Code of conduct
- Contribute to a workplace environment that is conducive to upholding the Code of conduct.
- Seek help when the proper course of action is unclear or unknown.
- Discuss perceived violations of the Code with the party whose behaviour is in question, with a supervisor, or with the local Human Resources representative.
- Be responsible to carry out and comply with the Amnex policies and procedures.

What Is Expected of Managers: Responsibilities of a Manager:

Encourage a Culture of Ethics and Compliance.

Managers should at all times, model appropriate conduct.

Should ensure that the people you supervise understand their responsibilities under the Code of conduct and other Company policies.

- Create an atmosphere where employees feel contented raising concerns.
- Respond to questions and concerns.

Corporate Assets & Information

A. Fair use & protection of Amnex assets:

All Amnex employees are required to protect Amnex's assets and ensure their efficient use. Misuse, theft, carelessness and waste have a direct impact on our profitability and reputation. Amnex's assets include:

The buildings, equipment, supplies, computer systems, software and other materials that comprise Amnex workplaces.

The patented technology systems and business processes of Amnex that generate revenue from clients.

The Amnex business ideas and strategies being developed to ensure its future success.

Contracts between Amnex, its clients and other business partners that represent Amnex income streams.

Financial and business performance data pertaining to Amnex, clients and other business partners.

Company resources should be used only to conduct company business or for purposes authorized by management.

Unauthorized copying of software, other legally protected work is a misuse of assets & creates potential financial and legal liability for Amnex

B. Protecting Confidential Information:

One of the Company's most valuable assets is information. Like all other assets, information that is not generally disclosed and is helpful to Amnex (or to competitors) must be protected from being disclosed. For example, information relating to trade secrets, patents, research & marketing strategies. It also includes records, practices, letters, plans, software & data stored on electronic or magnetic media.

Access to confidential & proprietary information must be limited to authorized persons.

C. Communication

Communication While at a customer site, or in public forums, employees are prohibited from making any controversial, negative, derogatory or insulting remarks or statements, verbally or in writing, about Amnex, its products, customers, business partners, vendors, employees, the Company's reputation and/or that of its competitors.

Any Violation in terms of protecting Confidential information & communication may expose the employee to non-compliances and related disciplinary action.

Conflict of Interest

A. Summary

The Amnex employees are expected to act in Amnex's best interests and exercise sound judgement, free from personal interests or divided loyalties. A conflict of interest exists when personal activities or relationships interfere (or appear to interfere) with their objectivity and judgment in doing what is best for Amnex. The purpose of these Bylaws is to help them identify and deal with situations that may give rise to potential conflicts of interest or the appearance of conflicts.

B. Definitions

Financial Interest is (1) the ownership of 1% or more of the outstanding stock or other securities of a public or private company or other entity; or (2) the right to receive compensation or payment or other benefits from an entity in any form (including, but not limited to, bonus, salary, commission, consulting fees, royalties, rent or the right to repayment of principal or interest on a loan).

Relatives as defined under the Conflict of Interest Policy : Relationships established by blood, marriage or legal action. Some of the examples will be as following:

- Blood Relationships: Mother, Father, Son, Daughter, Sister, Brother
- Marital & Legal: Spouse, mother-in-law, father-in-law, sister-in-law, brother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, stepparent, stepchild
- Other Relationships: Aunt, Uncle, Nephew, Niece, Grandparent, Grandson or Cousin.

Close Personal Friend is defined as any person with whom an employee has a meaningful social or business relationship outside of his/her work for Amnex, including co-employees, customers and business partners with whom the employee may have developed a relationship in the course of employment with Amnex.

Policy Statement

The employees must avoid conflicts of interest, promptly cease activities that cause conflicts to exist and provide written disclosure of any conflict of interest or potential conflict of interest that they are aware of upon hire or that may occur during your employment at Amnex. The most common situations that create a conflict of interest (or the appearance of one) are those related to:

Doing Business with Family, Friends
Personal Financial Interests while dealing with other entities
Other Business Opportunities outside Amnex

Outside Business Activities During tenure with Amnex
 Receiving Gifts / Undue Benefits from outside entities
 Public Speaking, Books, and Other Publications
 Intellectual Property of Amnex
 Non-Solicitation & Non-Compete
 Violation of Conflict of Interest Policy

As Amnex employees, you must avoid any type of conflict and identify those situations that create – or appear to create – a conflict between your personal benefit and Amnex’s interests.

Reporting Matrix for any Violations of Conflict of Interest

While we trust that all Amnex employees will follow the company rules, code of conduct and policies, we are prepared to handle any violations or breach of these norms/standards. Amnex also promises to protect all whistle blowers or individuals who report such incidents. The reporting matrix for ethical violations is as following:

Level 1	Level 2	Level 3	Level 4
Immediate Supervisor/Function Heads	HR-Head	Ethics and Compliance Committee	Board of Directors

The employees are expected to reach out to their immediate managers/supervisors if they see any challenge or violation of Code of Conduct. In case the issue remains unresolved, the employee should reach out to the HR-Head who would initiate proceedings through Ethics and Compliance Committee. If the issue persists, the employee should reach out to the board of directors for resolution.

Doing Business with Family & Friends

The employees must not take part in or attempt to influence any Amnex-related decision or business dealings (including those concerning current or potential customers, partners, vendors or suppliers) that may benefit or appear to benefit a relative, close personal friend or a business enterprise in which a relative or close personal friend is involved or has a direct or indirect financial interest. Employees or their direct reports who they manage, directly or indirectly, cannot be involved in deciding to retain, manage, oversee or approve purchase orders or invoices of such business enterprises.

Working with Family & Friends

Amnex generally does not permit work situations where a manager directly or indirectly manages a relative or a person with whom he/she has a romantic relationship. If you are aware that Amnex plans to hire your relative or a person for a position with whom you have a romantic relationship that directly or indirectly reports to you, you must disclose that information immediately (see Disclosure and Approvals).

If, during the course of your employment, a romantic relationship develops between you and another Amnex employee within the organization (including direct or indirect reporting relationship), you both must promptly disclose that information (see Disclosure and Approvals).

It is mandatory for all employees irrespective of level, rank, band or designation to inform the HR, about their relationship with any candidate who is joining the organization, in writing. Failure to comply with this call for further investigation by the competent authority within the organization.

The following rules are applicable for people in relationship who are working in Amnex:

- Individuals may not work under the supervision of the same manager;
- They may not create a supervisor/subordinate relationship with a family member;
- They may not supervise or evaluate a family member;
- The relationship will not create an adverse impact on work productivity or performance;
- The relationship may not create an actual or perceived conflict-of-interest;
- They may not audit or reviewing in any manner the individual's work.
- They may not be employed if a member of the employee's immediate family (spouse, children, parents, grandparents, brothers, sisters, step family members, in-law family members) serves on the Amnex's Board or any Committee or Council which has authority to review or order personnel actions or remuneration and salary adjustments which could affect his/her job.

Personal Financial Interests While Dealing with Other Entities

The employees and their direct reports, directly or indirectly, must not take part in or attempt to influence any Amnex decision or any business dealings with a current or potential competitor, customer, partner, vendor, supplier or other business entity in which they have a direct or indirect financial interest.

In addition, to avoid the appearance of a conflict, employees must disclose any direct or indirect financial interest in a current or potential competitor, customer, partner, vendor or supplier with which they discover Amnex plans to do business.

Amnex employees cannot loan money to or borrow money from, act as a guarantor, co-signer or surety in any similar capacity for any current or prospective Amnex competitor, customer, partner, vendor, supplier or an employee or representative of any such enterprise, if employees and their team members, directly or indirectly, are involved in deciding to retain, manage, oversee and/or approve purchase orders or invoices of such business enterprises.

Bribery & Kick backs

No employee of the Company shall directly or indirectly solicit or accept any money, privilege, special benefit, gift or other item of value for the purpose of obtaining, retaining or directing business or bestowing or receiving any kind of special or favoured treatment for the Company. The Company does not permit or condone the use or receipt of bribes, kickbacks or any other illegal or improper payments or transfers in the transaction of its business. The use of any outside consultant, attorney, accountant or agent in any manner or for any purpose that would be contrary to this prohibition will not be permitted

Other Business Opportunities Outside Amnex

The employees must not take personal advantage of or interfere with any existing or potential Amnex business opportunities. Amnex business opportunities include acquiring property or organizations or pursuing lines of business that are related to Amnex's business mission and existing lines of business.

Additionally, the employees must not direct any such opportunity to a relative, close personal friend or to a business enterprise in which a relative or close personal friend is involved or has a direct or indirect financial interest.

The employees must not accept payment (in any form) from another entity for work that they perform for Amnex. The employees should not personally accept finder's fees, referral fees or other incentives from companies to whom you have referred business on behalf of Amnex.

Amnex employees during the course of their work will have opportunities to work with various vendors and may have a say in deciding the organization's course of action. The employees are expected to be fair in their dealing with vendors and avoid any transactions such as kickbacks to influence to the decision. Employees should flag any such fraudulent transactions. Further it is the responsibility of the employees to flag any approach made by a vendor or supplier promising kick-backs or undue benefits to influence their decision.

Outside Business Activities During Tenure with Amnex

The Amnex employees during their tenure with the organization cannot be part of any other organization, Listed or Unlisted. The employment contract forbids them from holding commercial stakes in any venture outside Amnex. The organization expects their wholehearted efforts and loyalty. The employees need a written consent from Management before undertaking any commercial activity outside Amnex.

Further outside business activities must not compete with or reflect adversely on Amnex or give rise to a conflict of interest. The employees must not engage in any outside activity that is likely to involve disclosure of Amnex's proprietary information or that is likely to divert time and attention from their responsibilities at Amnex.

The employees cannot serve as a board member or technical advisor of a competitor or of a company that may reasonably be expected to become a competitor. To serve as a board member or technical advisor of a non-competing business or to accept a board position or technical advisor position (paid or unpaid) with a current or potential customer, partner, vendor or supplier, the employees must first disclose the opportunity and obtain written approval.

Approval may be granted if the proposed business activity would not entail disclosure of Amnex's proprietary information, give rise to a conflict of interest or negatively affect their job performance. However, if the outside organization is engaged in business that is so closely related to their work at Amnex that they might inadvertently use or disclose Amnex proprietary information while working with that organization, approval is unlikely. Amnex may withdraw approvals at its sole discretion at any time.

You are not required to seek approval of the following activities

Any affiliation with a trade association, professional association or other such organization related to employee's work or position at Amnex. However, if the organization is involved in lobbying activities relating to the business of Amnex and the are either an executive officer or board member of the organization or directly involved in the government relations activities of the organization, the employee must seek approval and consult with Amnex's Ethics and Compliance Committee or MD & CPO in its absence.

Participation in non-profit civic or charitable activities, including serving as a member of a board of directors or technical advisory board. However, the employees must obtain approval if the entity is an Amnex customer or expects to receive or seek a contribution from Amnex .

Positions with co-operative boards, housing societies, clubs, and similar entities where the sole purpose of such participation would be to hold title to and/or manage real property in which they can or do reside.

Positions with holding companies, trusts or other non-operating entities established solely for purposes of employees or their investments, estate or tax planning or to hold employees, their family's real estate or other investments that would not otherwise require disclosure under this Policy.

The employees are expected to be alert to situations that may give rise to conflicts of interests or the appearance of conflicts of interests. They may be asked to discontinue an outside activity if it impacts or is perceived to impact your impartiality, effectiveness, productivity or if the disclosure of Amnex proprietary information is at risk.

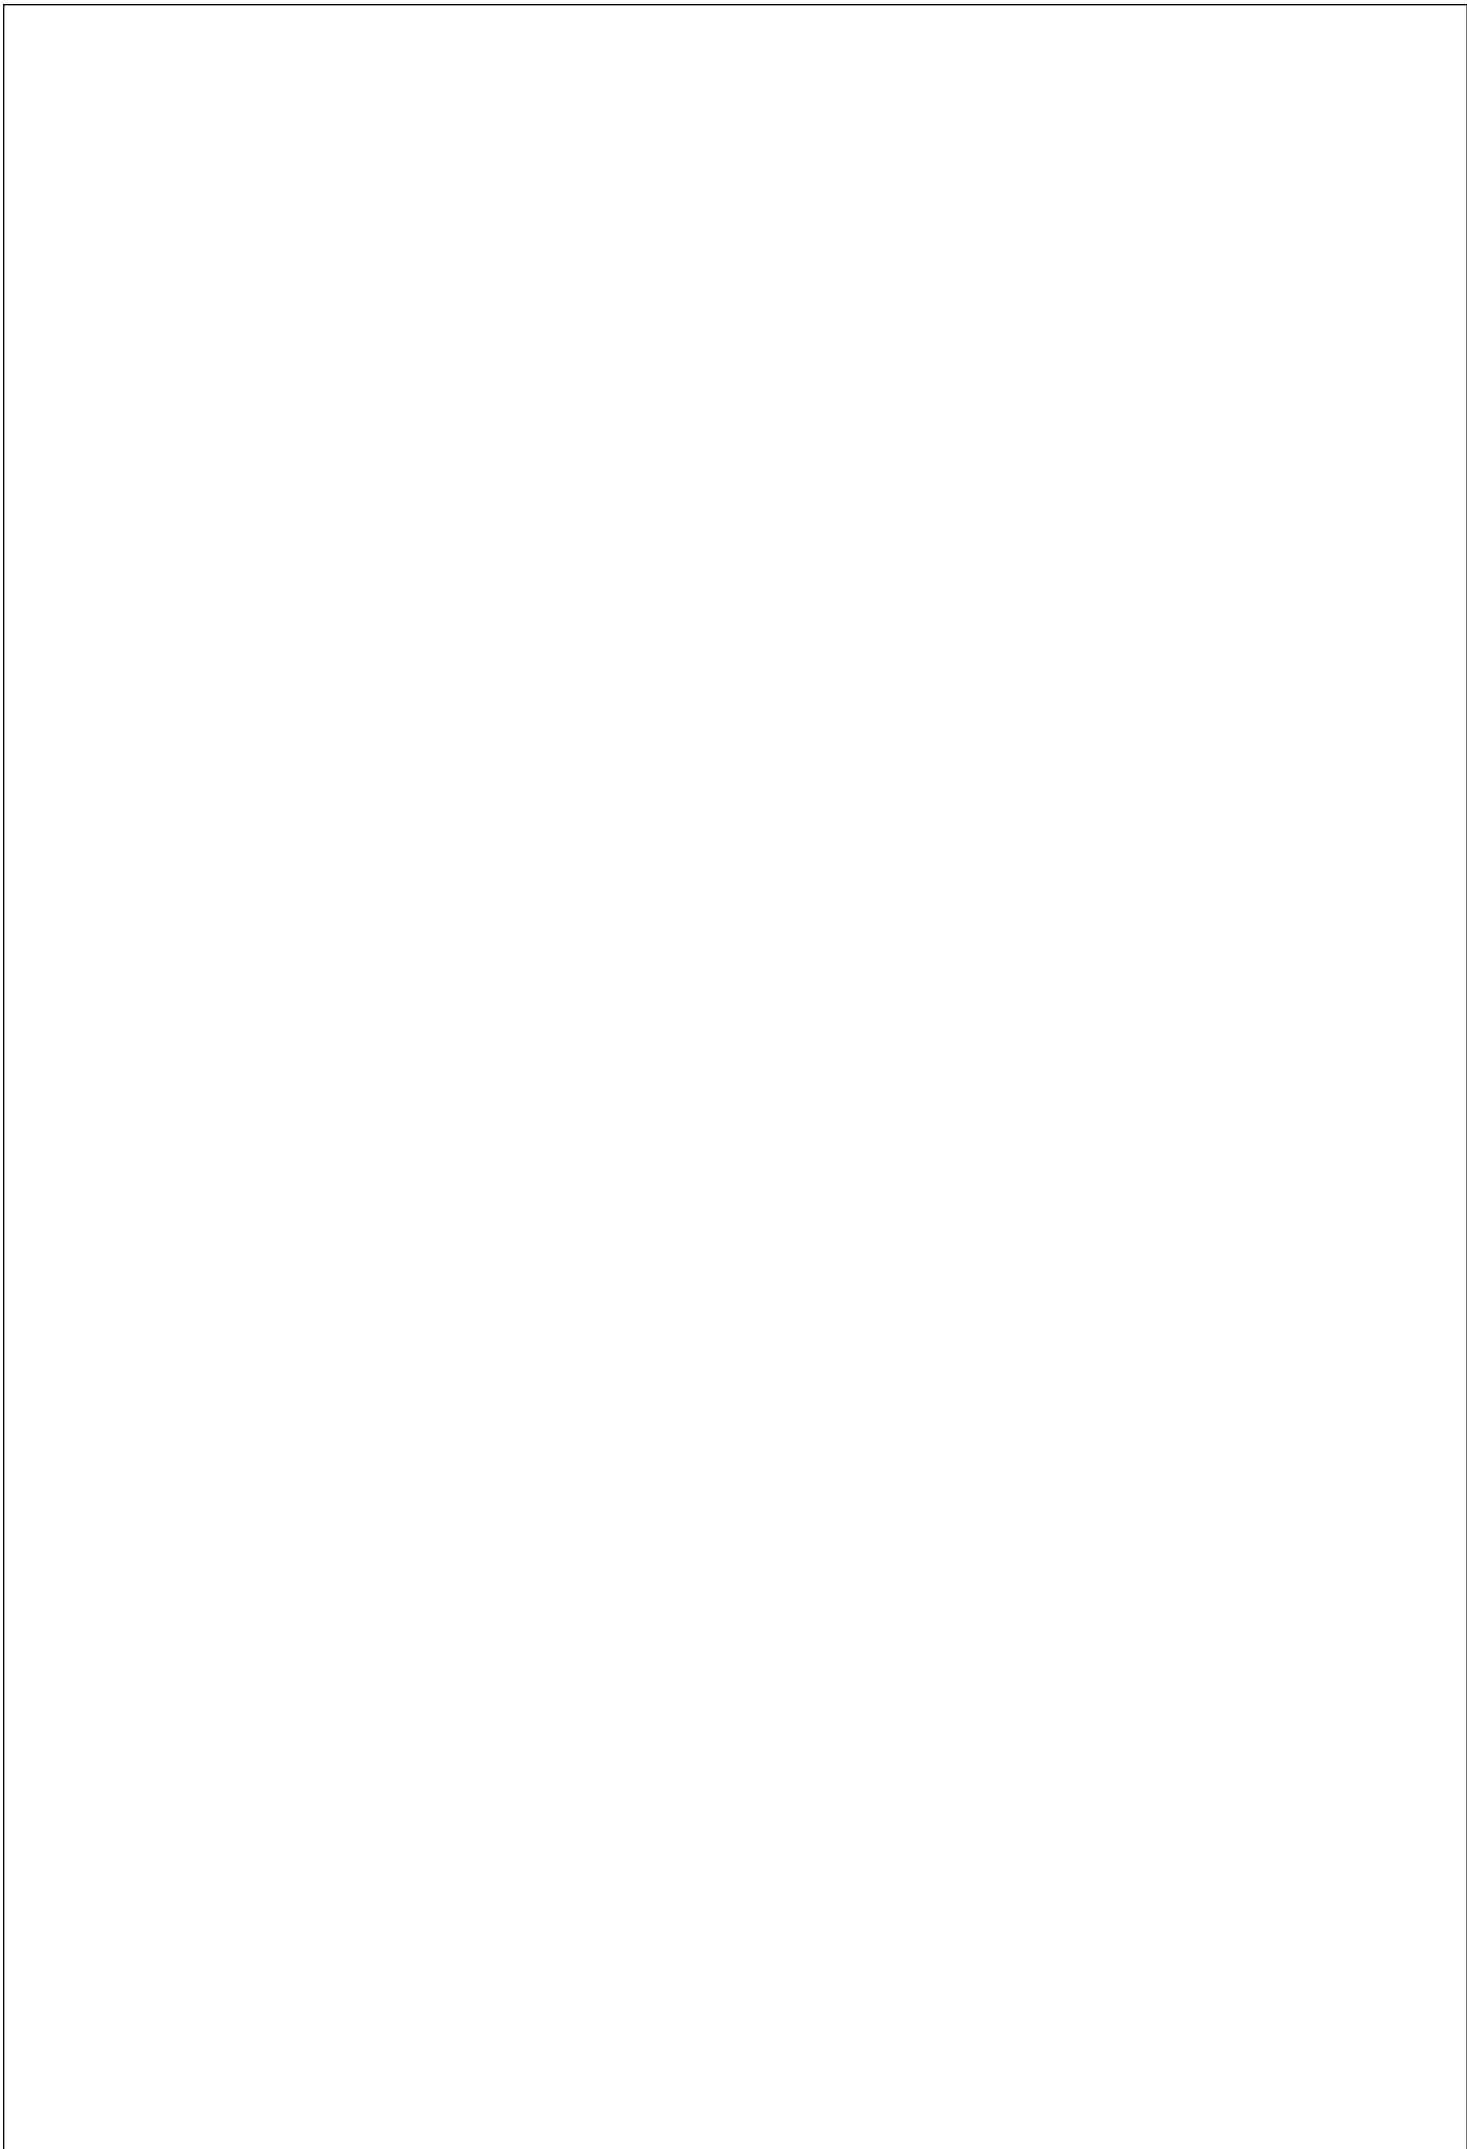

Failure to disclose any such information would be dealt by a Ethics and Compliance committee and its recommendations will be implemented by the organization.

Receiving Gifts / undue benefits from Outside Entities

As an Amnex policy, we discourage you from receiving gifts from Vendors, suppliers, competitors and other people who may have a conflicting business interest or have potential opportunity to associate with the organization. While small token gifts such as eatables are okay up to a limit of (INR 500 only), any costly gifts are not welcome.

Please inform your manager or competent authority if any of the vendors/suppliers are pressurizing you to accept gifts. Further you are required to inform your reporting manager in writing, in case you are accepting a gift beyond INR 500.

Employees should not accept non-monetary gifts including but not limited to dinners, lunches, drinks, vouchers, gift cards from the vendors. As an organization, Amnex wishes to retain its fair view towards Vendors and any such attempts malign image of the organization. Any violation of this clause will be taken as violation of core values of the organization.

Public Speaking, Books and Other Publications

As with outside business activities, personal and business-related speaking engagements (including, for example, lectures at an educational institution, presentations at trade associations, or participation on panels) and publishing activities must not compete with or reflect adversely on Amnex, nor should they give rise to a conflict of interest.

Outside business activities should not entail disclosure of Amnex's proprietary information or divert time and attention away from your responsibilities at Amnex. For all employees, including Directors and above, prior to accepting a position for a speaking engagement, the proposed activity(s) must first be disclosed and approval obtained.

Any written or oral presentations or publications (personal or business-related) that concern or are related to the business of Amnex or where the employees are representing self as an Amnex employee must also be pre-approved in accordance with the Internal Media Policy, as applicable.

For personal written or oral presentations or publications that are not related to the business of Amnex, it should be clear that you are representing yourself and not Amnex (Including academic assignments).

Decision Making at Amnex

Amnex takes pride in building a strong leadership pipeline and empowering people across levels to take decisions. However, all the decisions in the organization need to follow due process and accountability. Further it is advisable to consult leadership groups to take key decisions. Some of the decision criteria and levels have been defined below:

- The expense request needs to be backed by a detailed business justification and a clearly defined execution plan. The board will review the request and make the final decision. In case the Amnex Board is not able to reach a decision, the Managing Director reserves the right to take the final decision that will be binding on the organization. This is applicable to all decisions related to all expenses or investments such as but not limited to investments in technology, R&D, Marketing, PR, HR Initiatives, and Hiring Vendors or suppliers.
- All decisions with respect to Audit, Financial reporting and related issues to be discussed and verified by the Audit and Risk Committee
- All decisions with respect to Corporate Social Responsibility to be discussion and verified by the CSR committee.
- The decisions related to the Performance Appraisals, Ratings, Increments and Promotions to be verified, vetted & signed-off by the CXO committee to ensure consistency of approach across the organization.
- All major decisions with respect to the Project Delivery, procurement and related issues need to be signed off by Chief Delivery Officer and Director- Procurements.
- The Internal Audit Team reserves the right to audit any of the decisions across the organization to ensure fairness of the process and decision making

Employee Conduct while dealing with Third Party (Including Clients and Vendors)

This applies to all employees of Amnex. Every type of company relationship is covered by this code including relationships with vendors, customers, government entities and partners and between Amnex Associates. As an Amnex Employee you are expected to conduct all business according to the highest ethical standards and in full compliance with this code and any applicable laws and regulations.

Perform work to the standard agreed with Amnex and the customer; be punctual, present and communicate effectively with customers and managers.

Adhere to the terms of the employment agreements that you signed covering confidentiality, inventions, non-solicitation and any other specific terms relevant to your employment.

Use Amnex and customers communication systems (email, chat, intranet, etc.) for business communications only and avoid forwarding any communication out of the specific domain for any purpose (for example; from a customer email to personal or Amnex email accounts).

Treat others with dignity and respect and discourage any form of harassment.

Be fair, honest and impartial while conducting business transactions and engaging in communication related to Amnex and our customers/business partners.

Refrain from involvement in any activity that could result in a personal conflict of interest or a conflict of interest for Amnex or is against local laws and regulations.

Be mindful of Amnex and our customers' reputation and refrain from participating in any activity that could cause reputational harm to any Amnex business partners/customers.

Protect the proprietary information of Amnex, Amnex customers, Amnex Associates, Amnex business partners and any other proprietary or confidential information you may have access to.

Use information appropriately and avoid any perception of inappropriate or illegal use of information gained in your position at Amnex (for example, through insider trading).

Use Amnex assets and the assets of our customers for approved purposes only.

Adhere to all laws, rules and regulations that apply to business transactions engaged in.

Internal Discipline

The internal discipline is a critical aspect of success for both individuals and the organization. Lack of discipline and ad-hoc approach to processes leads to issues and failures over a period of time. At Amnex, we are committed to following processes and Standard Operating Procedures that would ensure alignment across the organization. Any deviations from the processes are to be seen as exceptions and not Business as Usual. Some of the guidelines for maintaining internal discipline as following:

The employees are expected to follow Standard Operating Procedures related to various activities such as Sales, Project Delivery, Software Development, Procurement, Project Management, Human Resources, Legal, Marketing, and other aspects of the business. The functions are required to routinely update their SOPs (at least once in six months) and make people aware of the changes through mass mailers or other methods.

The employees are expected to inform their reporting managers as well as their function heads about deviations from the standard processes or procedures and seek their buy-in for the same, well ahead in time.

The deviations from standard processes or procedures or processes without formal consent from reporting manager / function head, would call for the following course of action:

The managers should immediately report (within 48 hours from identifying/knowning the breach) any breach of processes/procedures by their team members. A failure to report the breach will make the managers liable for action.

In the first instance of Disciplinary breach, the Human Resource Team, along with the Reporting manager, will provide the employee an opportunity to explain his/her side of the issue and would issue them an informal warning

A second instance of breach, will call for an official warning issued to the employee through a letter along with it becoming a part of the employee records

A third instance of breach, will call for suspension of the employee pending investigation from the Ethics and Compliance Committee or a team nominated by the management. The final course of action will be decided based on the report and recommendations from the committee.

The company reserves its rights to take appropriate legal remedies and recover damages if it is proven that the breach has been intentional on the employee's behalf

The employees should strictly adhere to various to the organisation while performing their duties and during the course of their employment.

The company also reserves the right to take stricter actions and bypass the set procedures, if a case of ethical breach, data falsification, intentional suppression of facts or information, financial misappropriation or violation of Amnex Values is reported. The company may choose to terminate the employee and recover damages in such cases.

Disciplinary Action: Against Violations

Once any violation is reported, the HR-Head along with Chief Operating Officer will assess and review the situation.

The CPO on advice from the Management will form a cross-functional disciplinary action committee, comprising of not more than 3 members to investigate the matter. The

In case of serious allegations or violations or misconduct, the organization can suspend the employee for a period of 3-6 weeks, pending detailed enquiry. During Suspension, the employee will be eligible for only 50% of his/her monthly wages

The Disciplinary action committee will investigate the matter and will be authorized to review various documents as well as to interview people and record statements. The Disciplinary Action committee will present its investigation report within 3 weeks, starting from date of the constitution.

The Disciplinary Action committee will present its findings to the CXO Forum or Ethics and Compliance Committee along with its key recommendations for action. The CXO Forum or Ethics and Compliance Committee will take the final decision on the recommendations of the Disciplinary Action Committee after due diligence. The CXO Forum / Ethics & Compliance Committee, reserves the discretion to take final decision based on the recommendations from the Disciplinary Action Committee.

The findings as well as the final course of action will be communicated to the employee by the Disciplinary Action Committee

If the employee is found to be not-guilty by the Disciplinary Action Committee, the organization would reverse any charges or actions including suspension and will restore any loss of pay due to suspension.

Equal Opportunities Employer

- A. Diversity and Inclusion
- B. Workplace Violence and Harassment
- C. Policy against Sexual Harassment at the Workplace

A. Diversity and Inclusion

Amnex maintains a strong policy of equal opportunities to all its employees and eligible applicants for employment. The organisation regardless of race, caste, religion, colour, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, age, nationality, disability and other characteristics hires, provides training & development opportunities, promotes and compensates employees on the basis of individual competence and potential.

B. Workplace Violence and Harassment

Zero tolerance on harassment of others on the basis of race, caste, religion, colour, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, age, nationality, disability, and others. Harassment includes making derogatory remarks about such characteristics, using negative appellations and other verbal and physical behaviour like violence. Intimidation and threats are also considered violence.

All employees are expected to co-operate in preserving this work environment. Any form of harassment, whether verbal or physical will not be tolerated by Amnex at any level

C. Policy against Sexual Harassment at the Workplace

Amnex is committed to creating and maintaining a secure work environment for all its employees. Employees of Amnex and women at the workplace shall be treated with dignity and in accordance with the Amnex policy to maintain a work environment free of sexual harassment, whether physical, verbal or psychological.

Sexual Harassment by its very nature is a form of misconduct that gravely undermines the employment relationship. By framing POSH the organization wishes to prevent & deter the commission of acts of sexual harassment at work place & provide a procedure for redressal of complaints pertaining to such incidences. Employees who violate this policy will be subject to disciplinary proceedings.

Employees are advised to read, get acquainted and also comply with Amnex's 'Policy against Sexual Harassment at the Workplace' (pls refer to POSH Policy).
